UNION STATE CONVENTION.

The Union voters of the various Counties of the State of Oregon, who are in favor of the continued and vigorous prosecution of the present war to the complete and final suppression of rebellion and extinction of treason, and in favor of hearty and efficient support of the authorities of the General Government in their efforts to protect and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States and preserve and perpetuate the Union, and who are willing to combine for the election of men of like principles to all offices in this State, are respectfully and earnestly invited to hold conventions according to usual custom for election of delegates to a State Union Convention to be held at Albany, in Linn county, on Wednesday the 30th day of March, 1864 for the purpose of nominating candidates for Representative to Congress and State Printer, electing delegates to the National Union Convention and providing for the selection of candidates for Presidential Electors and transacting such other business as the Convention shall deem proper

We respectfully recommend the holding of County Conventions on the 12th day of March 1864

We also respectfully recommend the holding of Conventions of delegates from the various districts at the time and place of holding the State convention, for the nomination of candidates for Supreme Judges and Prosecuting Attorneys in the several districts where vacancies shall exist.

The several counties will be entitled to delegates in the State Convention as follows Benton [illegible], Clackamas, 9 Clatsop, 1, Columbia, 1, Coos 1 Curry, 1, Douglas, 8 Jackson, 10, Josephine, 5 Lane, 8 Linn, 12 Marion, 12 Multnomah 8, Polk, 5 Tillamook 1, Wasco, 10, Washington 4, Yamhill, 6 Umatilla, 2 Baker 3—Total 112

By order of the Union State Central Committee
JOHN H MOORES Chairman.
A G HOVEY, Secretary

Salem, January 6th 1864

It is Time to go to Work.

Within five months, the voters of Oregon will be called upon to decide the political condition of the State. The opinions now existing in their minds, unless changed before the day of election, will control their action If these views are opposed to the Government, it should be the aim of loyal men at once to instruct and correct them. We ought not to postpone efforts till within a few days of the election. There is in this matter a radical defect, which ought to be remedied Energetic action is usually deferred until candidates are nominated, and then electioneering and stump speaking are common enough and are doubtless serviceable in arousing friends, but not likely to convert opponents. To do this—to gain recruits, something more than the ammunition of a month's campaign is necessary. Such work requires time and deliberate labor. The calm reason of men must be addressed and instructed, and they must be made to understand their duty as patriots The press is the most efficient agent for accomplishing this, for men instinctively imbibe the views which they find discussed and enforced in their favorite paper. No one can entirely resist such an influence, and if it is rationally and truthfully exerted for six or eight months before an election, it will be of far greater benefit than any of the devices and excitements of a heated canvass Will not the friends of the Union see to it, then, that their organs are widely circulated, and that the people of the State have full and ready opportunities to learn their duty in regard to the vital issues upon which they must pass judgment at the next election? It is of far less consequence to contrive schemes for the personal success of this or that aspirant, than it is to lay broad and deep the foundations of a just and patriotic public sentiment, which will be very sure at the proper time to find its best and most competent representatives, while it is very likely to repudiate all who employ the tricks of the demagogue to secure its management and control

Affairs at Richmond —The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, writes that private letters have been recently received from Richmond confirming the deplorable account of public and private affairs in that city Thousands of the old and wealthiest residents are suffering for the common necessaries of life, and are heartily anxious to have the war concluded, and quite willing to come back under the old flag Many of them are said to have become indifferent to the question of slavery, and openly declare that the institution is virtually broken up—having lost all hope and all heart If it is so the end of the war cannot be very far off, and the rebel leaders must soon be cast aside like chaff before the wind.

Too Costly a Prize —The Buffalo Courier hits off the extravagance of the city government by saying that "should a determination to attack Buffalo ever again be made manifest on the part of the rebels, the most conclusive way to prevent invasion is to send word to the enemy, under protection of an appropriate flag of truce, that if they capture Buffalo they must pay its taxes and their own expenses beside" We don't believe they would take Portland on the same terms, provided all the taxes levied upon our citizens can be collected by law

Credit to Rosecrans —Gen Thomas has telegraphed to Washington that the plans of his late movement were matured by General Rosecrans before he was relieved from the command of the Army of the Cumberland, and that in the late action he carefully followed General Rosecrans' previously given directions.

New Mail Arrangement

The Postmaster General has called for proposals to transport the mail between here and Sacramento, by a schedule which occupies fifteen days, during the whole year. The route is divided into five or six independent sections on none of which it is proposed to run by night. We regret exceedingly that the Postoffice Department deems it expedient to advance backwards in this fashion and we think that the people of this State and of the Territories north and east of us, will wonder what the Pacific Delegation in Congress is doing, while we do not believe there is another instance in the nation's history, of reducing mail facilities The invariable course has been to extend and improve them—but now instead of a mail through in seven days for seven months, and in twelve days for the balance of the year, we are to be indulgently favored with its wonderfully speedy transmission in fifteen days—at a rate of about forty miles a day! This is progress with a vengeance, and ought to excite our gratitude—unless it more wisely arouses all who are interested, to energetic and immediate efforts to induce the Department and Congress to modify the plan proposed, and at least to give to us all the facilities enjoyed at present, and if possible still more The contracts are to be let in March what is done by way of remonstrance, must be done forthwith as after they are made, the Department will excuse itself from doing anything by way of relief from the serious and deplorable inconveniencies which now threaten us

We hope that some one in every town and village in the State and adjoining Territories will feel sufficiently concerned upon the matter, to prepare and circulate petitions at once, praying that our mail facilities may not be diminished Let there be no delay, and we may perhaps save ourselves from the harsh and barbarous dose, which the Postmaster General has been mixing, and seems ready to administer

Has the East done less than the West?

In the remarks which we copy below, the New York World states with admirable precision three of the causes which have led to the unfounded impression, that the contributions in the Eastern States for the war are disproportionate to those of the West

The people and the press of the Western States are disposed to felicitate themselves at the expense of the people of the Eastern States for the alleged backwardness of the latter in supplying their quotas to the various armies in the field There is indeed, no disputing the fact—the States west of Ohio have contributed more men to the national cause than the States east of Ohio but there is an explanation of the matter which completely robs the West of any particular credit, and relieves the East of any shame for not having done its part in the conduct of the war

In the first place the burden of manning the navy falls exclusively upon the East New York and the New England States stand almost the entire drain of able bodied men for this purpose The sailors marines, engineers, and coal heavers, with their families, are a part of the population of the sea board States, and although the men are really in the national service, they help to swell the number of soldiers required under the various quotas demanded by the military authorities Thus for instance—if New York city supplies 25,000 men to the navy, they and their families—say 50,000 in all—are counted as part of the population in estimating the number of soldiers required

But again, the large foreign element East subtracts from our available forces to put in the field True, many aliens find their way into the army, but the number who claim exemption—especially when a draft takes place—is very large But still this heavy foreign population swells our military quotas and adds gravely to a burden of which the west knows comparatively very little

But there is still another cause which adds to the military resources of the West The proportion of men between twenty five and forty five is much larger West than East All the States west of the lakes have received the bulk of their populations within the last twenty years Emigrants are almost always young people, and there is invariably an excess of males It follows, therefore that the West could more easily recruit soldiers than the east because it contained both a younger population and a larger proportion of males

"The people and army of the Confederate States have been so much complimented upon the power and gallantry of their arms so much flattered upon what has been accomplished that they have lost sight of the fact that more surrenders have been made by their armies than the armies of any other nation What nation in three years of war ever lowered their flag eleven times in surrender? There have been eleven Confederate surrenders since the war began Near Rich Mountain at Hatteras, or Island No 10, Fort Henry Fort Donelson Roanoke Island, Forts Philip, Jackson, Arkansas Post Vicksburg, Port Hudson and Cumberland Gap, and then there has not been an instance of punishment in this long list of disaster, but on the contrary, promotion has in some instances followed swift upon the surrender If the history of this war will show as much gallantry in the fights as that of any other war it will also exhibit more surrenders than ever befell the arms of any other nation during the same period of time, and we cannot point to any Saragossa, Londondery or Genoa, to offset this long catalogue of unsuccessful sieges If our people cannot understand why European powers hesitate to recognize our nationality, perhaps they may find the cause in the fact that the flag we seek to register among the nations of the earth, though often crowned with glorious victory, has unfortunately been lowered very often in unmitigated disgrace, and as long as foreign nations see surrenders so complacently made and promotions so often following them, they are uncertain whether some steamer may not bring the news of our unconditional surrender to the terms of the enemy We do not mean to intimate that all these surrenders were equally disgraceful, but do say that no one of them conferred any honor upon the arms of the Confederate States At many of them gallant fighting was done At Vicksburg Port Hudson, Donelson and Roanoke Island there were not wanting instances of great gallantry but to none of them can we point with the pride of the Spaniard, French and English at the places made glorious by the obstinacy and endurance of their defense The surprises of Kelloville, Brandy Station, Williamsport and Bristow Station, and now the late disaster on the Rappahannock show how leniency to the first dereliction of duty may entail continued and repeated disasters, and carelessness inflict lasting disgrace upon the army Notwithstanding the gallantry of the Army of North Virginia, something is wanting to correct and prevent these frequent affairs

Surprises are more injurious to military prestige and more destructive to men and material, than defeat in regular battle, and also they are easily prevented

"An officer himself to be surprised and pounced upon suddenly deserves the severest punishment

Land Warrants - The following is from Thompson's Bank Note Reporter, and will be found of interest to purchasers and holders of land Warrants

At the last session of Congress land warrants were granted to the States for the support of Agricultural Colleges These warrants (all in 160 acre scrip) have been issued to the loyal States in proportion to representation in Congress New York getting 990 000 acres, Vermont 150 000 acres, etc Some of these warrants will be on the market this Winter These warrants have this peculiarity—no more than one million acres can be entered in any one State For prompt entry they are as good as any other warrants, but to lay them aside for use a year or two hence would be risky

The Fur Trade of British North America

A few remarks on the early history of the above trade may not be uninteresting It is believed by those who have investigated the subject that the use of furs was introduced into Europe by the northern invaders of the empire of Rome There seems also to be but little doubt for the belief that in the sixth century the [illegible] of [illegible] were conveyed to Rome from its distant [illegible] on the shores of the Arctic ocean but the [illegible] he [illegible] was very great For several centuries [illegible] the period just named furs were [illegible] in [illegible] western parts of the continent of Europe In the year 1252 the famous Venetian traveler Marco Polo, mentions as a curious fact that he found the tent of the King of Tartary lined with the skins of sables and ermine, brought from countries far north from the land of darkness No less than a century from that time the wearing of fur [illegible] had become so prevalent in England that in the year 1337 Edward the Third enacted that none of his subjects should wear furs unless they could spend £100 per annum

Early in the 17th century the shores of the Arctic seas were found [illegible] by [illegible] of great value One Groselier a Frenchman [illegible] the idea of establishing a settlement in the [illegible] The matter was received coldly by his own Government but he obtained through the English Ambassador an interview with Prince Rupert who [illegible] [illegible] into the scheme In the [illegible] [illegible] fitted out by the assistance of the Prince reached a river then called Nemisco, to which he gave the name of Rupert [illegible] After wintering there with [illegible] [illegible] than had been anticipated the [illegible] returned and gave such a favorable report [illegible] Rupert [illegible] Albemarle Earl of Craven Lord Ashley [illegible] formed [illegible] Company [illegible] the sum of £10 500 for the commencement of a trade [illegible] A charter of incorporation granted by Charles the Second gave this (the Hudson Bay) Company full possession of all the land and territories upon the countries [illegible] and confines of the seas, and possess lakes rivers creeks and sounds in whatever latitude they shall be that lie within the entrance of the straits commonly called Hudson Straits that are not already possessed by or granted to any of our subjects or possessed by the subjects of any other Christian, Prince or State The charter further grants the whole and entire trade and traffic to and from all havens bays creeks rivers, lakes and seas into which they shall find entrance by water or land out of the territorial limits and places aforesaid and to and with all other nations inhabiting any of the coasts adjacent to the said territorial limits or places which are not already possessed as aforesaid, or where the sole liberty or privilege of trade and traffic is not granted to any of our subjects

By these vigorous measures the French Court was awakened to a sense of its neglect and Groselier already detached from the English service was sent out in the year 1682 to found a factory on the river Hayes this he accomplished and also surprised the British factory on Nelson river After this time hostilities became frequent between the French and English settlers but notwithstanding the immense losses sustained by the company from 1682 until 1687, amounting to $110 014, they were able in 1684, to pay to the shareholders a dividend of 50 per cent In 1688 an equal dividend was made and in 1689 one of 25 per cent In 1690 without any call being made, the stock was trebled, while at the same time a dividend of 25 per cent was made on the newly created stock The French captured other factories in 1692 1694 1696, 1697 and the company suffered losses amounting to $97 500 But at the peace of Utrecht in 1713 these factories were restored to the company who by 1720 had again trebled their capital with a call of only ten per cent on the shareholders In 1743 questions arose in Parliament concerning the rights of the company but the matter was decided in their favor In 1782 several of their factories were taken by the French, under La Perouse but the trade in furs still continued very lucrative until the invasion of their rights and territories by a strong rival association the North West Company, whose fierce competition caused much animosity and bloodshed

The North West Company was an association of twenty three proprietors, comprising some of the most wealthy and enterprising settlers in Canada They employed about 200 persons as clerks, interpreters, guides and boat men who were stationed all over Canada The shareholders, who engaged actively in the trade were called agents, some of whom resides at different posts established by the company and others at Montreal and Quebec Bands of this company crossed the Rocky Mountains about the year 1805 and established stations on the northern head waters of the Columbia In the year 1813 the company purchased Astoria, on this river, which was given up by Mr Astor, of New York, in consequence of the war between the United States and Great Britain The Hudson's Bay Company now aroused, exercised for the first time its chartered right to colonize and sold in 1812 a tract of land on Lake Winnipeg, Red river to Lord Selkirk, who introduced a considerable number of persons from Scotland The consequence was open war between the partisans of the two companies There was considerable bloodshed, and much ill feeling existed until 1821 when the rival companies coalesced In 1821 the three London representatives of the N W Company offered to merge their interests in those of the Hudson's Bay This was agreed to and an Act of Parliament was passed under which the Crown granted to the Hudson Bay Company and the three representative proprietors of the N W Company, in London and Montreal, license of exclusive trade for 21 years in the Indian territory—that is, over all the tracts that might not be included in the charter given by Charles the Second, also, over those tracts which by mutual consent, were open to the subjects of England and those of the United States In 1838, the Crown granted for 21 years another license of exclusive trade over Indian neutral territory

The above is an imperfect sketch of the inception of the fur trade as regards the Hudson's Bay Company and of its rights and privileges, which it has had for two centuries —Canada Railway Advertising Company's Prospectus

Shoddy —The Hartford (Conn) Post publishes an article on "Shoddy," which, it says, "comes from one of the first business men in Connecticut" We quote the following

What is shoddy? Shoddy is old, worn out and literal woolen goods made of slack twisted yarn picked to pieces by machinery specially adapted to the purpose It is mixed with wool of longer fiber or staple and when carded together can be spun finer or coarser, according to the proportion It bears to the new wool making the compound So small a portion of pure new wool can be thus mixed with new wool and made into yarn fit for either warp or woof, or yarn for knitting purposes Mungo is another name for old and worn out fine felted goods and broadcloth of these picked to pieces in the same manner It is the finer article, and when properly prepared can be worked out the finest black cloth to be found in the market A very large proportion of all the satinet in the market is more or less impregnated with shoddy The same may be said of hosiery and all knit goods It is consequently worn by the many, and those who do not get it on in one form or another are the favored few

McClellan vs McClellan —"Occasional," (John W Forney) in a letter to the Philadelphia Press explains the plan which the Union men of Philadelphia adopted on election day to spoil the effect of the "last card" of the opposition which was Gen McClellan's letter in favor of Woodward. They published in all the loyal journals a letter "Little Mac" had written just one year previously strongly praising Gov Curtin Occasional says,

It was an amusing sight to see posted at every precinct poll in Philadelphia, the letter of Major General George B McClellan applauding Andrew G Curtin for his activity and energy in strengthening his army in one of the darkest hours of the campaign [illegible] 1862 and by the side of that letter another from the same General McClellan asking the people of Pennsylvania to vote for George W Woodward who had never given utterance to one single sentiment in favor of the war, and had never spoken a word in favor of the same Geo B. McClellan

General Grant —The Stockton Independent has an article on Presidential candidates which looks very much like granting leave to Uncle Abe It says

His late brilliant achievement at Chattanooga has given him the inside track No one appears at all likely to catch up with him, unless General Banks shall succeed in great exploits in Texas We do not regard it as a matter of national congratulation that our most excellent chief magistrate is likely so soon to be displaced by a purely military man, whose political principles are not very well known But so it is Grant is now the man, and should the Copperheads nominate McClellan, Grant's chances will be improved But he must not lose a great battle in Georgia.

Brag and his High Private —The following incident was related to a Union man in Shelbyville Tennessee by Major Hunter, of the Confederate army, who formerly resided in Shelbyville, but who latterly resided some twenty miles from Helena Arkansas The major was fond of the story and often repeated it

While Bragg's troops were on their retreat from Murfreesboro, ragged hungry and weary they straggled along the road for miles, with an eye to their own comfort but a most unmilitary neglect of rule and regulations Presently one of them espied, in the woods near by a miserable broken down mule, which he at once seized and proceeded to put to his use by improvising from straw pieces of rope a bridle and stirrups This done he mounted with grim satisfaction and pursued his way He was a wild Texan, tatterdemalion, bareheaded barefooted and wore in lieu of a coat a rusty looking hunting shirt With hair unkempt beard unshorn, and face unwashed, his appearance was grotesque enough but to add to it, he drew from some receptacle his corncob pipe and made perfect his happiness by indulging in a comfortable smoke

While thus sauntering along a company of bestirred and bespangled horsemen—General Bragg and his staff, rode up and were about to pass when the rather unusual appearance of the man attracted their notice The object of their attention however, apparently neither knew nor cared to know them, but looked and smoked ahead with careless indifference

Who are you? asked the major general

"Nobody" was the answer

Where did you come from?

Nowhere"

Where are you going?"

I don't know"

Where do you belong?"

"Don't belong anywhere

"Don't you belong to Bragg's army?"

Bragg's army! Bragg's army!" replied the chap "Why he's got no army! One half of it he shot in Kentucky and the other half has just been whipped to death at Murfreesboro

Bragg asked no more questions but turned and spurred away

Strategy —A Western correspondent relates the following incident that occurred in the midnight fight between Longstreet's and Hooker's forces

A short time subsequent to this magnificent charge on the enemy in their breastworks by Gen Geary's brigade Gen Howard taking with him a small escort of cavalry started for that part of the field where Gen Geary was supposed to be He had not gone far when he came up with a body of infantry

What cavalry is that?" was the hail All right responded Gen H at the same time calling out What men are those? Longstreet's! Are the reply All right come here, said Gen H The men approached "Have you whipped the fellows?" asked Gen H in a manner to keep up the deception No—d—n them they were too much for us and in [illegible] [illegible] our rifle pits like devils We're whipped but [illegible] By this time the rebels had gathered nearer [illegible] down your arms" demanded Gen H [illegible] [illegible] The men surrendered [illegible] in charge Gen H proceeded on his way He had [illegible] for before another party [illegible] infantry called out What cavalry is that All right [illegible] again [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] up the position [illegible] Geary [illegible] other had observed the advancing horsemen and infantry as he supposed the prisoners to be and supposing them to be rebels he had ordered his gun to be loaded with canister, and in a moment more would have given the intrepid Howard and his little force the benefit of it But the General who had successfully deceived the enemy found a way to make himself known to his friends and so escaped a reception of that kind

A Significant Rebel Letter —The following letter was found upon the body of a rebel soldier at Rappahannock Station The names are suppressed

Near Brandy Sept 21 1863

Mercantile Library Association. —The progress made thus far in raising subscriptions for a Mercantile Library render it probable that in the next few weeks all the preliminary arrangements will be completed, officers and committees chosen, moneys paid in and first invoice of books, newspapers and periodicals on their way hither. The contributions to this end are profitable investments. We understand that the M L Association of San Francisco are in possession of quite a large number of volumes—a respectable library of themselves—in duplicate, which can be procured at a merely nominal price, for the use of a similar association here, providing our citizens do not too far procrastinate, so that the pre existing organization in San Francisco can prove of great pecuniary advantage to us by furnishing us with the nucleus of a future large library at less than first cost, and giving us also the benefit of an experience acquired by them in the years that are past, in which some of our prospective members have mingled and been educated. An association of the character contemplated tends to a dissemination of all knowledge useful to the merchant as a merchant, through current newspapers and closer personal intercourse, and through its library of standard and miscellaneous works its influence is advantageous to the families of its members Out of this Association necessarily and naturally spring all those organizations for the maintenance of healthy commercial relations in a city like ours, and although to-day it may seem but a snow ball moulded by boyish hands, let each one give it a push forward, and at its every revolution its importance and value will increase in more than the simple ratio of its increase of contributing members.

Body Found.—The body of Antony McCue, who was drowned in the Willamette Friday night, was found on Saturday afternoon at quarter-past one o clock, after several hours search A slight contusion was perceptible in the region of the right temple, which indicated his contact with the steamer's guard in falling It appears that for some reason he started to go to the steamer Surprise, at half past eleven o'clock at night, and being deceived by the snow, stepped over the edge of the wharf, and fell, striking his head against the boat's guard, and thence into the river. He must have been stunned by the blow, for notwithstanding the steamer's watchman repaired to the spot immediately, poor McCue was sinking and beyond his reach. On Saturday morning the Surprise was dropped a few yards astern, so as to accommodate the search, which was prosecuted with commendable fidelity by several parties until the hour stated, when the body was found about thirty feet out in the river, and but little down stream from his last track on the wharf. Before life was extinct, deceased must have grasped a stick or some other substance securely buried in the muddy bottom, for it was not without a strenuous and prolonged effort that the body was raised to the surface after being grappled An inquest was held upon the body, which was then conveyed to his late residence Mr. McCue was a drayman by occupation, and a respected citizen. He was near forty years of age, and leaves a wife and several children to mourn a sudden and terrible bereavement. His remains were followed to the grave by a large concourse, yesterday, despite the inclement weather. In the procession, headed by the Portland Mechanics' Brass Band, were Multnomah Engine Co, No 2, of which he was a member, over one hundred representatives of the other Engine and Hook and Ladder Companies, the Hibernian Society, and a large number in the character of citizen sympathizers and friends of the family. The different flags of the Fire Department were at half mast, and the alarm-bells of the different companies were tolled out of respect for the deceased.

Fire Last Evening — The alarm of fire shortly after eight o'clock, last evening, was occasioned by the burning of a portion of the floor in the third story of Vaughn's building, corner of Front and Morrison streets, over the City of Paris store It originated from a fire in the second story, the sparks ascending the chimney flue, and falling on the floor above, through an uncapped orifice. The fire was well underway when discovered, but was extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water The entire Fire Department was on hand in an incredibly short time, showing that whenever the streets are in a passable condition, there is no reason to doubt the will or ability of our city firemen.

From the Dalles —Eight men arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, having walked and broken trail through the snow from within six miles of the Dalles The steamer Idaho left the Dalles early last Tuesday morning, for the Cascades, but after proceeding as far as Gray's Point, six miles, she encountered so much ice that the Captain deemed it advisable to put back, which he accordingly did The party above alluded to, however, being anxious to come through, left the boat, and for six days have endured what required not only physical courage but physical power.

Expected To-Day — Mr West, Express Messenger of Wells, Fargo & Company, may be expected to arrive from the Dalles this evening Changes may have taken place in the weather along the route, however, by which his arrival might be delayed several days

Ice Near Home —Quite large fields of ice were yesterday floating in the Willamette but a short distance below town.

THERE is no other way to cure diseases but by first purifying the whole system so as to create a healthy circulation.

The first medical men of the age agree with us, that no disease of any extent can be cured without using such medicines as will act directly upon the blood. Why many medical men have failed to cure chronic diseases is, because the medicines used have not been such as will act beneficially on the blood.

The many thousands of bottles which have been used by the public, and the many gallons and barrels supplied to the physicians, warrant us in saying that the last two years we have been more successful with our Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup in curing hopeless cases of chronic diseases than have any other remedies in the hands of physicians, or before the public.

It is now admitted that no combination known to the profession, acts so promptly upon diseases as our SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP.

MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—The progress made thus far in raising subscriptions for a Mercantile Library, render it probable that in the next few weeks all the preliminary arrangements will be completed, officers and committees chosen, moneys paid and the first invoice of books, newspapers and periodicals on their way hither. LOST AND FOUND.—The body of Antony McCue, who was drowned in the Willamette Friday week, was found on Saturday afternoon at a quarter-past one o'clock, after several hours' search. A slight contusion was perceptible on the region of the right temple, which indicated his contact with the steamer's guard in falling. It appears that for some reason he intended to go to the steamer Surprise, at half-past eleven o'clock at night, and being deceived by the snow, stepped over the edge of the wharf, and fell, striking his head against the boat's guard, and thence into the river. Before life was extinct, deceased must have grasped a rock or some other substance securely buried in the muddy bottom, for it was not without strenuous and prolonged effort that the body was raised to the surface after being grappled. A bequest was held upon the body, which was then conveyed to his late residence. Mr. McCue was a drayman by occupation, and a respected citizen. He was near forty years of age, and leaves a wife and several children to mourn a sudden and terrible bereavement. The remains were followed to the grave by a large concourse, yesterday, despite the inclement weather. In the procession, headed by the Portland Mechanics' Brass Band, were the Tuscumah Engine Co., No. 2, of which he was a member, over one hundred representatives of the other Engine and Hook and Ladder Companies, the Hibernian Society, and a large number in the character of citizen sympathizers and friends of the family. The different flags of the Fire Department were at half-mast, and the alarm-bells of the different companies were tolled out of respect for the deceased.

FIRE LAST EVENING.—The alarm of fire shortly after eight o'clock, last evening, was occasioned by the burning of a portion of the roof in the third story of Vaughn's building, corner of Front and Morrison streets, over the City of Paris store. It originated from a fire in the second story, the sparks ascending the chimney flue, and falling on the floor above, through an uncapped orifice. The fire was still underway when discovered, but was extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water. The entire Fire Department was on hand in an incredibly short time, showing that whenever the streets are in a passable condition, there is no reason to doubt the will and ability of our city firemen.

FROM THE DALLES.—Eight men arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, having walked and broke a trail through the snow from within six miles of the Dalles. The steamer Idaho left the Dalles early last Tuesday morning, for the Cascades, but after proceeding as far as Tilley's Point, six miles, she encountered so much ice that the Captain deemed it advisable to put back, which he accordingly did. The party above alluded to, however, being anxious to come through, left the boat, and for four days have endured what required not only physical courage but physical power.

EXPECTED TO-DAY.—Mr. West, Express Messenger of Wells, Fargo & Company, may be expected to arrive from the Dalles this evening. Changes may have taken place in the weather along the route, however, by which his arrival might be delayed several days.

ICE NEAR HOME.—Quite large fields of ice were yesterday floating in the Willamette but a short distance below town.

RUNAWAY.—On Saturday afternoon, a pair of horses became frightened at some bells on another passing team along First street, and dashed madly up Madison street, soon disengaging themselves from the vehicle, and after a lively race, were only stopped by contact with a heavy wagon. One of the frightened animals was slightly injured by the collision.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.—As Justice Gray was riding along Front street, near the present Court House, on Saturday, his horse broke through the ice with one foot, and was only extricated by the cutting away of the ice with axes. Mr. Gray was thrown to the ground but fortunately escaped with some slight scratches about the head and face.

FAILED TO CONNECT.—The steamer John H. Couch, which left here on Friday morning with the Mails for Monticello, returned about noon on Saturday, having been unable to enter the Cowlitz river, on account of ice. We are informed by Capt. Holman that he experienced great difficulty in getting back to the city, the ice blocking him up and endangering his boat two or three times.

PORTLAND CITY MILLS.—We are glad to notice that the enterprising house of Richards & McCraken have taken control of the City Mills, and having renovated and put them in tip-top order, are now prepared to furnish an article of fresh family flour, equal to any in the State. Success to home enterprise.

THE steamer Cowlitz arrived from Monticello on Saturday evening with the Puget Sound Mail. The moderation of the weather since Saturday may enable the down-river boats to make regular trips, but it is scarcely probable, at least for several days.

BOARD OF DELEGATES.—A regular meeting of the Board of Delegates, Portland Fire Department, will be held this evening at 7.

Office in WESTERN HOTEL BUILDING, three doors from Corner Front and Morrison streets.

Office open for business at all hours, day or night.

RESPECTFULLY STATE to the citizens of Portland and vicinity that they have their office two doors further from the corner of Front and Morrison streets, in the Western Hotel.

Having enlarged and fitted up their office with additional conveniences for those patronizing them, they hope by continuing to execute their work on the most scientific principles only, and of the best material, to receive the confidence and the best patronage of the city.

Artificial Teeth on gold or silver, on the latest and most improved suction and principle, also on Amber, Rubber, and Celuride Base, at the option of the patient.

FILLING TEETH with pure Gold, so as to remain for them serviceable life time, and with Artificial Bone filling, when so desired, so far as gold and other work they will look to be unnoticed, they are merely used for years without pain.

For EXTRACTING TEETH I have to use Dr. Smith's (of New York) Galvanic Apparatus to subdue pain, a process now in use by the best of Dentists in the east. I also use the Nitrous Oxide process, and Chloroform, if desired.

N. B.—No work will be allowed to go out of the office that can be surpassed by other Dental Operations, but only the best of material will be used, and the most laudable operations performed.

Special attention paid to operating children's teeth.

☞ All Dental Operations carefully executed.

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENTION of the public to the fact, that on the first of May 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of income for the year 1863, and for the year 1863 is just ended, it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memories, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor.

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs, etc., from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditures have been made. For instance—a person receiving $500 for rents, he can use of that amount all that is necessary to repair such property from which rents were derived, the same rule appertains to steamboats, sawmills, and other like property, but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds, Mortgages, and from dividends, must be returned as income, although a portion of the whole has been expended in repairing buildings, steamboats, etc.

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from whence derived, amount expended, and for what purpose, then with the forms and Blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor, a correct return can be made.

How Could I?

BY ANNIE HIGELOW

He carried my satchel to school,
And I, through the deepest of snow,
Could think why he lingered with me so clear
If I couldn't tell why could I?

As we homeward under my chin
My head with its bright curls would dive,
Why he gazed in my face could I tell?
If I couldn't how could I? could you?

He told me my eyes were as black
The brightest e'er my fate knew
I blushed and looked down—could I help it?
If I couldn't how could I? could you?

He left on my cheek a warm kiss
Then off with the light wind he flew
If I could, I'd tell it—let it be stamped
If I couldn't how could I? could you?

'Twas long years ago and since then
He has sought new worlds loving, and true
I only last week saw his name
For how could I help it? could you?

COURTESIES.—William Wirt's letter to his daughter on the "small sweet courtesies of life," contains a passage from which a deal of happiness might be learned

I want to tell you a secret. The way to make yourself pleasing to others is to show them attention. The whole world is like the miller at Mansfield, "who cared for nobody—no, not he, because nobody cared for him." And the whole world would serve you so, if you give them the same excuse. Let every one therefore, see that you do care for them by showing them what Sterne so happily calls the small courtesies, in which there is no parade, whose voice is too soft to tease, and which manifest themselves by tender and affectionate looks, and little acts of attention giving others the preference in every little enjoyment at the table, in the field, walking, sitting or standing.

APTITUDE IN BUSINESS.—Thousands engage in the strife of business, but really how few possess an aptitude for it! An old merchant stated at a public dinner that eighty out of every hundred of those who had engaged in mercantile pursuits had failed, although their opportunities were quite as favorable as were those of the few who had succeeded. It was not lack of industry but of aptitude that had caused them to fail. Very few men possess this quality, which, for want of a better name, has been called luck, and without which no man, however astute and prudent he may be in other matters, can hope to succeed in the mutations which invariably accompany the adventurous career of the merchant. Aptitude is everything. A man may have an excellent idea of music, but no amount of study will make him a musician, so he who engages in business, however clear his opinions may be on the conduct of others, may never himself succeed in that which he is competent to criticise.

SCENE MATRIMONIAL.—WIFE TRIUMPHANT. "Can you let me have money this morning to purchase a new bonnet, my dear?" "By and by, love." "That's what you always say, my dear, but how can I buy and buy without money?" And that brought the money, just as one good turn deserves another. Her wit was so successful that she tried again the next week. "I want money, my dear to buy a new dress." "Well, you can't have it, you called me a bear last night," said her husband. "Oh, well dear, you know that was only because you are fond of hugging." It bit him just right again, and she got the money and something extra, as he left his pretty wife and hurried off to business, saying, "It takes a fortune to keep such a wife as you are—but it's worth it."

LAMENTABLE FACTS.—A silly mother thinks she can make more than women out of her daughters. She toils in the kitchen, and they simper and drawl nonsense in the parlor. She rises with the sun to get their breakfast, while they read the last novel in bed. She toils over the washtub, while they drum on the piano. Their earnings of the farm are squandered, to put clothes on their backs, and to put them through a fashionable school. They are reared in idleness and become accomplished babies, utterly ignorant of all that womanly knowledge so creditable to the sex, unfit for anything but to dress finely, talk nonsense, and marry simpletons like themselves. It's of no use, mother, your silly dream will never be realized.

A druggist was aroused by the ringing of his night-bell, went down stairs, and had to serve a customer with a dose of salts. On his return, his wife grumbled out. "What profit did you get on that penny?" "A ha'penny," replied the assiduous druggist. "And for that ha'penny you will keep both me and yourself awake for a long time," rejoined the wife. "Never mind," added the placid druggist, "the dose of salts will keep him awake much longer, let us thank heaven we have the profits, and not the pain of the transaction."

"What's the use of living?" asked Jack Simmons, the other day. "We are flogged for crying when we are babies, flogged because the master is cross when we are boys, obliged to toil, sick or well, or starve, when we are men, to toil still harder when we are husbands, and, after exhausting life and strength in the service of other people, die and leave our children to quarrel about the possession of father's watch, and our wives to catch somebody else."

Florence Nightingale published some observations on the sanitary condition of the Indian army, at the request of the commission on that subject. She was particularly requested to give her opinion on the consequences of a vicious course of life." The London Critic remarks on this request, that it must have been thought "she had no more sex than an angel." But she accepted the task "with the repulsive sigh of a mortal woman, and the courage of an immortal angel."

Last summer in the height of mosquito time, the little rascals practiced their songs nightly to the annoyance of every one. While a little girl, Ettie then about five years old was being put to bed, the mother said to her "Ettie, you must always be a good girl, and then at night, when you are asleep, the angels will come and watch around your bed." "Oh, yes, ma," said Ettie, "I heard them singing all around my head last night, and some of them bit me, too."

A YOUNG CUB.—We will wager our head that that urchin don't open any more boxes.

A Hoosier, having taken a looking glass home to his trunk, one of his hopeful offspring was curious to see the contents of the mysterious box. The mirror was on the top, when the youngster opened it gave one brief look, dropped the lid, and with terror depicted on every feature, exclaimed "Oh mother mother, father has brought home a young cub! I seed him—a young bear!"

GIRLS.—Some one out West boldly declares that girls will differ, and that furthermore as proof, one of them lately broke her neck in trying to escape being kissed, while he knows a great many of them ready to break their necks to get kissed. True, every word of it.

WOMAN'S SPHERE.—There is an old bachelor in existence who asserts crinoline to be man's horror and woman's sphere.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

DEERFIELD MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the common symptoms of a cold is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its instant use in my practice, and in my family for the last ten years, has shown it to possess superior virtues for the relief and cure of diseased complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTIFY, Esq., of Utica, N.Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since it was first introduced into this market, and I believe it the best medicine for colds, coughs, etc., that I am acquainted with. With a bad cold I shall not sooner part with my five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

BRISTOL, PENN., Mass., Feb. 1, 1864.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify that your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Croup, Whooping Cough, and all the diseases of children. We are happy to say to the afflicted in the South that they can appreciate your skill, and receive and use your remedies as freely as the people.

ELI AND ONELIA HUFF.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTPELIER, Ia., had a tedious Influenza, which took many solicitations and trials by the advice of our clerk, at last consented to try the second bottle of your Cherry Pectoral. He was completely well before the second bottle was used, as well as the best we ever had. Please send us your remedies as the post-office.

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

MT. VERNON, Ia., Feb. 1, 1864.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is in this section. It has relieved cases of consumption and lung affection, and is the favorite remedy for all cases of an affection of the lungs or throat.

H. LEE.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., Albion, Ia., Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL. I feel it my duty to consign two patients to the grave."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects when tried.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been the means of saving so many and such dangerous cases of Pulmonary complaints as can reach, but even to those it gives relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, New York, Dec. 1, 1855.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it my duty to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done in this locality. My wife had been for years under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians in this city, who gave her up as incurable. Your medicine was recommended to her, she has used it, and is now in the enjoyment of health. Many of my friends have been restored to health by the use of your CHERRY PECTORAL, and I believe it to be the best medicine in the world for the cure of Pulmonary diseases. Please send me a supply for my friends. Yours, with great respect,

ORLANDO KELLOGG.

Consumptives do not despair while there is a remedy like AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the most scientific chemists in the world, and its cures all over the country are literally miraculous.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed to their utmost to produce a perfect purgative, which is known to mankind as a cathartic. All of these PILLS have various degrees of virtue, but many of the most common and universally employed, and that the best, are those of which we make this preparation. They are safe and certain in their operation, and may be relied on as the best remedy for all the purposes of a cathartic that has yet been discovered. Their penetrating power, their searching influence upon all the secretions of the body, remove the obstructions which cause disease, and expel the latent maladies that lurk within the system. Hence their great value as a remedy for the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dysentery, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Ulcers, Eruptions, Tumors, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Tetter, Boils, Pimples, Blotches, Sores, Pain, Pleurisy, Headache, Piles, Worms, Gravel, Heartburn, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, and Intermittent Fevers, and for Purifying the Blood, they have no equal. Their sugar coating renders them pleasant to take, and they are the safest medicine for children. Being entirely vegetable, they are perfectly safe in any quantity, and in any condition of the system. Cures have been made which are truly astonishing, and which could not be credited were they not substantiated by men of such standing in their communities that their statements cannot be doubted. Disorders of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, and Blood, are cured by the use of these Pills, which, when taken as directed, will be found to restore health to the sick, and to preserve it for many years. They purify the blood, and impart to it the principles of life. They are the active principle of many remedies which have performed wonderful cures, but which contain, in addition to their virtues, the seeds of disease. Many of the most prominent physicians of the country have given their certificates to the public of the unparalleled cures of these Pills, and their own neighborhoods are the best witnesses of their value.

Costiveness, Biliousness, Colic, Heartburn, Headache arising from Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Dysentery, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Erysipelas, Eruptions of the Skin, Ulcers, Dropsy, Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fevers, Neuralgia, Piles, Worms, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a disordered state of the Stomach or obstruction of the Bowels, are speedily cured by the use of these Pills.

Do not be put off by any one who may wish to make more profit on some other pill they have for sale, but insist on having Ayer's Pills, which are of intrinsic value and curative power, and which you can rely on to do for you all that they are represented to do. There is no reason why they should not, for they contain the best and most powerful remedies that can be employed for the cure of disease.

The GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY

Thorn's Compound Extract of OPAIBA AND SARSAPARILLA.

POSSESSES advantages over any other remedy for the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, or Chronic Inflammation of the Urinary Passages, with an only infrequent use of Copaiba, or Sarsaparilla, a desideratum long sought for, and which supersedes no confinement nor change of diet. It is administered in the form of a paste, which is quickly dissolved in the mouth, and is of a pleasant aromatic taste. It has acquired its unbounded popularity in Europe, where it has been extensively used by the faculty of most eminent of the profession. As the above named remedy is counterfeited, be sure to ask for THORN'S GENUINE COMPOUND EXTRACT OF OPAIBA AND SARSAPARILLA, and see that the name of the proprietor, J. B. Thorn, Jersey City, and New York, is blown in the bottle, and his name, J. B. Thorn, Jersey City, and New York, is on the label.

DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS in Medicines, and others, are cautioned against selling or offering for sale any spurious article, or any article in imitation of the above, under the penalty of the law.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The increasing demand for the above Compound Extract of Opaiba and Sarsaparilla, has induced many persons to offer for sale articles purporting to be the same, or similar, which are worthless. It is therefore necessary that the public should be particular in purchasing, that they may not be deceived by the use of impure articles, calculated only to destroy the character of the remedy which the subscriber has given to the world, and which has received the sanction of the most eminent physicians in Europe and America. The genuine article is attached by the signature of the subscriber to the directions in English, French, Spanish, and German languages.
